

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S MORNING DAYLIGHT Power and Beauty

KATO
PRECISION RAILROAD MODELS
N SCALE

"A passionate masterwork of performance..."

The Kato 4-8-4 GS-4 locomotive is a triumph of N scale design, combining sophisticated modern engineering techniques and old-school styling. With an innovative sprung suspension, fully functional metal siderods, and a powerful Kato drive, the GS-4 can pull an 18+ car consist up a 4% grade, unassisted.

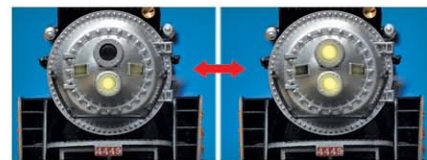

The primary driver bears a traction tire while the others feature sprung axles to maximize grip and connection on uneven track.

"...stunningly realized..."

The GS-4 and "Morning Daylight" have been hailed as the "most beautiful train in America" and Kato has gone to great lengths to capture that essence in N scale.

N scale figures (Item 24-270) fit easily in the engineer's cab.

A simulated Mars light is in place along with the standard directional headlight.

Streamlined cars with articulated diaphragms flex and sway as the cars move through curves (articulated car shown to the right) while the addition of the optional #923505 Kinematic Knuckle Coupler Set will pull the cars to within prototypical distance of each other; all while allowing them to go around tight turns that you wouldn't imagine possible.

The Observation drumhead matches the neon appearance of the 1:1 scale counterpart, as do the full-width diaphragms.

"...crafts dreams into reality..."

Combining the 10 car set with four 2 car add-on sets will create a complete "Morning Daylight" passenger consist, the exact train that used to run up and down the Pacific coastline between Los Angeles and San Francisco (trains 98 and 99) in the 1950's.

- Included in 10 car set
- Included in 2 car add-on sets (one pair per set)
